Spring Assessments

End of year testing is nearly upon us! As your students prepare for the end of year assessments, let me explain why we do these assessments, why they are important, and what they mean for our students.

First, these assessments measure your students progress toward meeting core standards for each grade. These standards define essential skills that student should master for success in the subsequent grade.

Second, this assessments are important because as a student moves from grade to grade, if there are skills that a student has not mastered, skills that are pre-requisite for learning down the road, we must intervene and make sure that these students are properly prepared for success.

And lastly, with the current technology and the computer-based nature of our assessments, we are able to get results immediately. We (and ACYI) use these results to group students in classes, in intervention and reading groups, and if a student can qualify for gifted and talented programs. If a student intentionally performs poorly on SAGE, we may place the student in an intervention group with students who are struggling—resulting in the student being bored resenting the placement, and/or ultimately becoming disillusioned with school, all because they didn't want to put forth effort. The decision to intentionally throw a test can have far reaching consequences.

Please encourage your student to do their best—and we will do our best to make sure the experience isn't all that bad.

Cell Phone Policy

We recognize that cell phones have become a common tool for communication. However, any electronic device in school is a major distraction to the teaching and learning environment and are vulnerable to theft and damage. We ask that you allow your child to carry a cell phone only if absolutely necessary and cell phones (and other electronic devices) must be turned off and left inside backpacks during school hours. Phones may not be used to talk, take pictures, play games, record or text during school hours, including recesses. Cell phones are not allowed to be used during the day at Mountain View unless they are given permission by their teacher and only in the main office.
